POLITICAL PROCESS

THE PMAA SMALL BUSINESS COMMITTEE (SBC) IS A POLITICAL ACTION COMMITTEE FUNDED BY VOLUNTARY CONTRIBUTIONS FROM MARKETERS ACROSS THE COUNTRY. PMAA REGULARLY REPORTS THE ACTIVITIES OF THE PAC (AS REQUIRED BY LAW) TO THE FEDERAL ELECTION COMMISSION (FEC) AND INFORMATION ABOUT THAT ACTIVITY IS AVAILABLE TO THE PUBLIC.

DEAR PETROLEUM MARKETER:

As Co-Chairs of the PMAA Small Business Committee, we are often asked why marketers should contribute to a Political Action Committee (PAC). The answer is simple. Decisions that are made on Capitol Hill, legislation that gets passed and sometimes, more importantly, legislation that is not passed, all impact our income and how we run our businesses. Since PMAA represents the industry in Washington and is aware of which representatives have the most influence over our issues, supporting candidates via PMAA's PAC is the most efficient way to make certain our industry's views are heard. Often, the legislator who wields the most influence over your business is not from your state, but from a state in which many of your colleagues may operate – thus, the importance of our network. In fact, it may be a legislator who lives thousands of miles away and who sits on a key committee or holds an important leadership position.

All SBC PAC contributions are carefully targeted to help elect candidates who share our concerns – particularly with opposition to federal price control legislation, futures market/interchange fees reform, tax and transportation legislation and regulation. The bulk of SBC contribution go to support candidates who serve on key committees for our industry or who support our industry's national goals. In addition, the SBC PAC expends funds to elect pro-small business candidates who will better represent our interests than the sitting incumbent. The SBC PAC allows PMAA to remain on the political forefront. While contributions are voluntary, your support this year will enable us to strengthen our involvement in Washington. We hope that we can count on you to help us unify our interests and continue our strong commitment to electing candidates to the U.S. Congress who sympathize with PMAA issues. With important industry issues before Congress, your participation in the SBC PAC has never been more important.

Sincerely,

Sam Bell & Gary Harris
