

Silver State Summary

By Peter Krueger NPM&CSA Executive Director

Celebrating 40 Years of Member Service to the Petroleum Industry in Nevada

In 1953 the Intermountain Oil Jobbers Association (IOJA) was formed in Salt Lake City, Utah. The new association included oil jobbers from Utah and Idaho. In 1964, IOJA changed its name to Intermountain Oil Marketers Association (IOMA). Nevada remained part of the Utah Association until 1968 when the Nevada Petroleum Marketers became the fifth member state of IOMA. The first president was Archie Lani, distributor for Atlantic Richfield of Elko, Nevada. In 1985 IOMA changed its name to the Western Petroleum Marketers Association (WPMA) and its offices remained in Salt Lake City.

In 1986 Jon Madsen hired the first executive director for the association, Deanna Dowdy. Pete Kelly was hired to lobby the state legislature on behalf of the Oil Heat Institute of Nevada (OIHI) during the 1987 session.

Four* Nevada Petroleum Marketers & Convenience Store Association (NPM&CSA) members will have served on the WPMA Board of Directors, and later as presidents in the years indicated:
