Primary Season Behind Us: Eyes on the General

Nevada's 2026 primary election cycle has wrapped, and our state association has been actively engaged every step of the way. As we reflect on the primary season, we're proud of the relationships we've built with candidates across the state who understand the critical role that energy marketers, fuel retailers, and convenience operators play in Nevada's economy.

Now, the real work begins. With primary results settled, ECAN's focus shifts squarely to the general election, and our work to ensure that Nevada's energy industry has a strong, informed voice in Carson City and in Washington DC. The races ahead will shape fuel tax policy, infrastructure investment, environmental regulation, and the regulatory environment our members navigate every day.

We are continuing to engage candidates at every level, building the coalition of allies our industry needs going into 2027 and beyond. If you have relationships with candidates in your community and want to connect them with our state association, please reach out, that grassroots network is one of our most powerful assets.

Big Dogs 2026: A Record-Breaking Success

We are thrilled to share that our Big Dogs event was, by every measure, the most successful event our state association has ever produced. The energy in the room was unlike anything we have experienced before: record attendance, record sponsorship, and the kind of meaningful conversation that reminds all of us why this industry and this association matter.

From policy roundtables to member networking, the quality of engagement reflected just how far our organization has come. Events like this do not happen without an incredible group of members who show up, engage, and invest in this industry and each other.

A genuine thank you to every sponsor, attendee, and volunteer who made BIG DOGS what it was this year. You set the bar high and we have no intention of lowering it.

Your 2026-2027 ECAN Board of Directors

We are excited to share that Michael DeMark (Jacksons Energy) has been elected to our Board as the Second Vice President and Caitlin Scherr (Rebel Oil Company) has joined our Board as a Director. Kyle Call (Maverik) will remain as ECAN President and Mackenzie Campbell (Mansfield) will remain as Vice President for one more year. Jason Case (Rebel Oil Company) continues to serve as our EMA Director. Thank you to our Board of Directors and all committee members who continue to volunteer their time and talents to ECAN, making us a better and more impactful organization.

Looking Ahead: Legislative Session Prep

With the Nevada Legislature convening biennially, the 2027 session is closer than it feels. Our government affairs work is well underway, identifying the issues that will define next session's agenda for energy marketers, tracking regulatory developments at both the state and federal level, and building the legislative relationships that make a difference when bills hit the floor.

Issues on our radar include fuel tax policy, underground storage tank compliance, EV infrastructure mandates and their impact on traditional fuel retail, and federal energy policy shifts that carry downstream effects for our members. We are engaged at every level and will continue to keep you informed as the landscape evolves.

As always, the strength of ECAN is its people. Nevada's energy marketers are the backbone of local communities across this state, from rural fueling stations to commercial fleet operators, and it is an honor to represent this industry alongside all of you.

With gratitude,

Miranda Hoover
