CREDIT CARD INTERCHANGE FEE REFORM PASSES SENATE VOTE

Gene Inglesby, Executive Director of WPMA, and key members of the WPMA Board of Directors have been in Washington DC this past week attending the PMAA Conference and Legislative Day on the Hill. They visited each of their respective Congressional offices and lobbied key issues on behalf of WPMA members.

Among those issues were Financial Reform, Credit Card Interchange Fee Reform, Reauthorization of NORA, Climate Change and the Ethanol Blend Wall/RFS 2 Crisis. These members represented you well and some great work was accomplished as a result of these visits by WPMA and other state associations.

The timing this year could not have been better. During the visits to the Senate offices, the Congressional Representatives were asked for their support on the Durbin Amendment to the Financial Regulatory Reform Bill (S. 3217) which prevents Visa and MC from continuing to increase debit card interchange fees. It requires them to modify their transaction fees to be "reasonable and proportional" to actual costs and makes it illegal for them to use the fee as a profit center.

The Durbin Amendment went on the floor last night and received a surprisingly strong passage with a 64-30 vote. This is a significant victory for our industry and WPMA is pleased to be a part of it.

Please take a moment to call your Senator's Office and thank them for their support.
